YACHTSMEN TALKING OF NATIONAL UNION

Formation of a Countrywide Association Would Be of Help to Sport.

WANT RULES TO AGREE

R to probable that a national yachting association or union will be organized in the near future. Some years ago a rachting union was organized, but it did not have the support that was exed and it died a natural death. lince then the clubs have got together and in the Atlantic coast conference have brought about many reforms in yacht racing, the chief of which has yacht racing, the chief of which has been uniformity in racing rules and rules of measurement. At the last meeting of this conference it was agreed that a national committee should be appointed and that yachtsmen could appeal to that committee for rulings and for interpretations of the racing rules. All decisions were to be published, so that all yachtsmen might profit by these rulings.

that all yachtsmen might profit by these rulings.

Now several of the leading racing yachtsmen of this vicinity and of Massachusetts think that the time is ripe to organize a national body to govern within certain limits the sport on the Atlantic coast, the Pacific coast and the great lakes, and those interested in this project will be called together shortly to organize.

This body will be similar to the British association in that it will attend to changes in the rules and possibly may be a court of final appeal to which yachtsmen can take their disputes. As at present constituted yachtsmen can appeal from decisions of regatta committees to the executive committee of the associations, but with the national union a further appeal would be possible. This national body probably will be limited in its power and may be simply advisory, just as the present local associations are.

Tachtsmen had hoped that when the Cape Cod Canal was opened it would cause an increase in cruising between New York and Eastern waters. It was figured that the canal would shorten the distance between New York and Boston and do away with the dangers of going outside Cape Cod and passing over the shoals. They have been distanpointed. outside Cape Cod and passing over the shoals. They have been disappointed, however, because the tolls are so high that they are almost prohibitive and the majority of yachtsmen prefer to take chances going over the shoals. There has been talk of a reduction in these tolls, and if they are reduced it is probable that some clubs will arrange their cruises to take their fleets through the canal and visit waters that have in former years been strange to them. Last mer years been strange to them. Last year one of the Eastern clubs arranged a cruise through the canal and into Buz-zards Bay, but the high tells caused the idea to be abandoned.

MANY NEW YACHTS TO BE READY SOON

At Least Ten of 100 Feet or Over Are Now Under Construction.

TEW FOR SAILING FLEET

That the coming yachting season is going to be a good one is shown by the number of vessels that are now building and which are to be commissioned of fair size are being built, one for H. P. Whitney, one for W. G. Ladd and one for Peter W. Rouss. Then there is the auxiliary schooner Sea Call, which will be finished early in the spring for Alexander S. Costran.

Altogether there are ten vessels now under construction that are 100 feet in length or over, so that these will help wing the agreement of the more proper of the property of the indoor at the construction that are 100 feet in length or over, so that these will help wing the agreement of the more proper of the property of the indoor at the construction that are 100 feet in length or over, so that these will help wing the agreement of the more property of the indoor at the construction that are 100 feet in length or over, so that these will help wing the agreement of the more property of the indoor at the construction that are 100 feet in length or over, so that these will help wing the agreement of the construction that are 100 feet in length or over, so that these will help wing the agreement of the construction that are 100 feet in length or over, so that these will help wing the agreement of the construction that are 100 feet in length or over, so that these will help wing the agreement of the construction that are 100 feet in length or over, so that these will help will be agreed and the second in the more proposed.

In the sailing fleet there are few large vessels. Herreshoff is building a 7 foot schooner for H. L. Tiffany, and Wood is building the 31 rater for Commodore W. H. Childs, but all the other satting crafts are small. A class of small sloops is being built by Herres-hoff for Buzzards Bay and another class small sloops is being built by Herreshoff for Buzzards Bay and another class for yachtsmen who live in the vicinity of Oyster Bay. The latter will be known as the Nut class. Bowes and Mower have turned out two classes of small catboats, one for the Ocean City Yacht Club and another for the Corinthian Yacht Club of Cape May. There are fifteen of these catboats and thirty-eight sloops building by Herreshoff.

In addition to these there are probably a dozen more small sailing crafts building for the season's racing.

The motorboat men will be busy. Speedboats are being built for T. Coleman du Pont. Count Casimir Mankow-sky, James Simpson, Vincent Astor. Thomas Chesbrough and a few others and there will be ten of the restricted class of the Motor Boat Club of America. In addition to these there are hundreds of small runabouts, express boats and day boats under 30 feet in length which are being built at the many yards as fast as they can be turned out. which are being built at the many yards as fast as they can be turned out.

A list is printed on this page of vessels of 30 foot length and over that are now being built or have been finished recently in the yards along the Atlantic coast. This list gives the over all length, the name of the yacht where a name has been selected, its owner, designer, builder and power.
